

Initially, there is nothing defined in this page layout. Place records and define fixed data and variable data, such as summary data or reserved variable data in the page interactively.

You can define fixed data in the same way you do using the Overlay Utility. See “Chapter 13. Design Operation” on page 227 for more information about the design operation.

You can place the record in the following steps.

Press the F24 key to change the function key area in the following display.
